SAN FRANCISCO (Reuters) — Almost half of the strokes suffered by young urban dwellers are linked to drug abuse, especially the use of cocaine, medical researchers said Friday.

The doctors, reported in the Dec. 1 issue of the Annals of Internal Medicine, also said that drug abusers under age 45 are six times more likely to suffer a stroke than other adults of the same age.

"We are talking about catastrophic strokes that are fatal one-third of the time, and leave many of the remaining victims permanently impaired," said Dr. Daniel Lowenstein, a neurologist at San Francisco General Hospital.

The researchers studied 234 patients, aged 15-44, who were admitted to San Francisco General over a 10-year period and found that drug abuse was the most likely cause of stroke in 47 percent of the patients under age 25.

It will be another 2 1/2 years before passengers will be able to make the trip on a high-speed train. Thirty million passengers are expected to make the trip in the first year.

Members of the National Arab American Student Union held a protest on Friday at the airport.

Girl receives transplant

KYOTO (Kyodo) — A partial liver transplant on an 11-month-old girl using a part of her mother's liver was completed early Saturday after a 20-hour operation, a Kyoto University Hospital spokesman said.

The operation was the 10th live donor transplant in Japan and was performed by a hospital team headed by Dr. Kazuo Ozawa.

The girl, who was in a coma before the operation, regained consciousness about 30 minutes after the transplant.

OTTAWA (OTT) — Police are hunting for three young women who sexually assaulted a man at gunpoint.

The three women told the 27-year-old man they "wanted their way with him," Ottawa police spokesman Staff Sgt. Paul Deaves said.

The man, whose name and background were not released, was offered a ride by three "very attractive" women as he walked along the street at about 8 p.m. Tuesday, Deaves said.

The three took him to a se-

Eurotunnel worker Kirkland said, "I can believe it, that at the time we actually got to the point where we had to walk through the tunnel to France, I was in a moment for me, it was a lot of much, but it was a good feeling."

The prognosticator Mexico climatologist Victor Iben Browning based his findings on lunar and solar activity and has stuck to his guns through his daughter's death, recently she thinks better chance of an earthquake than the United States.

Top earthquake scientist says the probability of a major earthquake in the San Francisco Bay area is low.

Most of the attention about the earthquake has focused on Missouri and the Midwest. In 1994, an earthquake in the United States that caused

The operation was the 10th live donor transplant in Japan and was performed by a hospital team headed by Dr. Kazuo Ozawa.

The girl, who was in a coma before the operation, regained consciousness about 30 minutes after the transplant.

The man was walking about 8 km from the city center.

The victim said he did not look particularly tough and could have been a construction worker. Two blondes and the other man were in their mid-20s.

Geoff is about 89 km west of Toronto.

Deaves said police have received "hundreds of millions" of phone calls from the press about the incident.

South Korean prosecutor and an unidentified man introduced by the prosecutor to help solve the dispute, the
